His Interests Will Be Well Looked After When He's Placed on Trial at Police Headquarters To-day -- Text of Charge Preferred Against Him by Devery.

The charge of insubordination, on which Policeman Edward Oneill is to be tried, was formally put upon the record at Police Headquarters yesterday by Deputy Commissioner Devery. The charge reads as follows:

I hereby charge Patrolman Edward Oneill of the Thirty-seventh precinct with conduct unbecoming an officer.

Specification—In this, to wit: That the said Patrolman Edward Oneill, on Aug 29, went on trial before First Deputy Commissioner William S. Devery for conduct unbecoming an officer and when informed by said Deputy Commissioner William S. Devery thathe would recommend fine of thirty days pay, did in an insolent and defant manner make the following reply:

You won't do anything of the kind I will go higher up I suppose if I would stand for a shake-down I wouldn't get thirty days, pay, and when leaving the court room did make the following remark: "I wouldn't give $25 for a transfer." Also when asked by said Commissioner William S. Devery. "What did you say?" replied: "I said I wouldn't stand for a shake-down I have been transferred four or five times since."

Neither Devery nor Commissioner Murphy

Neither Devery nor Commissioner Murphy would discuss Oneill's case beyond saying that the policeman would have a fair trial Deputy Commissioner York, who is to try Oneill, came over from Brooklyn yesterday and had a talk with Commissioner Murphy. Both declined to say what it was about Capt. Flood of the Tenderloin was present at the interview, but also declined to talk. While Commissioner Murphy was unwilling to say anything about Mr. York's visit, he was more frank about that of Capt.

Policeman Oneill was in conference with Justice Jerome and Assistant District Attorney Garvan all day yesterday. So were Col. Robert Grier Monroe and H. DeForest Baldwin of Lord, Day & Lord. Mr. Baldwin is to defend Oneill on his trial at Police Headquarters to-day, and it is said that he has been retained by the Committee of Fifteen. Oneill said that Lord, Day & Lord volunteered their services. "I can't understand," said Oneill, "why

"I can't understand," said Oneill, "why other policemen don't come forward and tell how they have paid for transfers. I opened the way for them. Paying for transfers started when Conlin was Superintendent, but was dropped when McCullagh came in. They would transfer you from wherever you were unless you gave up. I didn't have the money. I have lost in the last few years three children, and my savings have been spent paying doctor's fees and burying my little ones, so I couldn't pay for transfers and was transferred so pay for transfers and was transferred so far away that I could go home only once a Oneill had nothing to eay about what transpired before Justice Jerome and Mr. Garvan, and they were equally reticent. As The Sun said yesterday, Justice Jerome knows who approached Oneill for "shake-down" money.

At the request of the Merchants' Association Frederick W. Garvin of Dill & Baldwin, counsel for the association, will attend Oneill's trial to-day.

Col. Murphy had nothing to say about the second letter from President Dresser of the Merchants' Association, which he received yesterday, and which was an acknowledgment of the receipt of Murphy's reply to the first letter and a reiteration of what was said about rampant crime and police corruption in the first letter. He said that he had sent an answer to this second letter, but would not give it out. The Merchants' Association saw fit to give ociation saw it out though, and here it is:

DEAR SIR: I beg leave most respectfully

Dear Sir. I beg leave most respectfully to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the third instant.

For several months past, in fact, since I have been in this department. I have been in this department. I have been in daily communication with the District Attorney in relation to the subject which you write me about—to wit: Corruption in the Police Department.

I have furnished the District Attorney, Mr. Philbin, with all of the books, orders and any other references that might be required to probe to the bottom the allegations so freely made, and the District Attorney is now, and has been, investigating the charges made against the Police Department and its officers. Every member of the District Attorney's staff has been engaged almost daily in investigations and every aid that I can give them I am giving.

There has been no difference of opinion between us on any subject and there shall not be any on my part in aiding him to go to the very bottom of all investigations affecting the honor and integrity of the department.

The officer whom you referred to in your first communication to me (O'Neill) has stated publicly that money was asked from him for a transfer to a choice precinct. This declaration has gone broadcast through the community, and in order to get the evidence in the case, if any, the Deputy Commissioner (Devery) has preferred a charge against this officer for insubordination.

On this trial it is possible that I may be able to get facts which will justify me in putting on trial officers of any grade I remain, sir, respectfully yours. M. C. Murray, Commissioner and Chief of Police.

LIQUID AIR DIRECTORS SHY. o Meeting-Anxious Eyes Watching Signs of Jones and Dorsey.

The long-expected meeting of the direct tors of the Tripler Liquid Air Company, which it was announced might be yesterday was again postponed this time till to-day. At the office of counsel for the company it was said yesterday that heretofore it had been impossible to get a quorum for the meeting, but that to-day it surely would be held. It was said there on Tuesday that the meeting would surely held on Wednesday. As has been related at length in THE SUN the affairs of the company, which was to run pretty much everything, and, incidentally, to make nearly everybody rich, by means of fluid wind, became so complicated through the operations of Senator Jones of Nevada, ex-Senator S. W. Dorsey of New Mexico, and a number of other persons, that there is a demand for an investigation with a view of straightening out the company's affairs. Mr. Tripler, the inventor of the process of turning wind to water, is back of this demand and with him are a number of others who were let into the "good thing" in its early stages of development and now feel that they would like to know, you know, where they

The brokerage firm of Gerald M. Fennell & Co., which undertook the task of putting the wind-water stock on the market is also on the inquirers' bench. After working up the stock through all the regulation promotion processes from $5 to $8 a share, they found they were being undersold in the market and that the persons who were underselling them were Jones and Dorsey, who held a considerable block and Dorsey, who held a considerable block of the stock which, according to Fennell & Co., was awarded to them on condition that it was not to be sold, it having been agreed that Fennell & Co. should have the exploitation of all the stock of the com-exploitation of all the stock of the com-pany, they on their part undertaking to turn in 60 per cent of the gross proceeds of all sales to the company's treasury. The question has been raised as to whether or not the contract of the company with Fennell & Co. was of the character which that firm says it was. This is one of the that firm says it was. This is one of the things that the investigation is to clear up, it being denied by representatives of Jones and Dorsey that any such contract existed. Then again Tripler and others want to know if the stock of Jones and Dorsey was or was not sold under the representation that it was treasury stock and that the proceeds of the sale were to go into the Liquid Air Company's strong box, whereas it is charged that it went into the pocket of Jones and the pocket of Dorsey.

Jones and Dorsey had mining interests to look after in the Far West, although Tripler and others are very anxious to Tripler and others are very anxious to see them in New York Jones in particular. Whether Jones or Dorsey will be present Whether Jones or Dorsey will be present at the meeting to-day remains to be seen. It was said that Dorsey, who was in Los Angelos, was coming with all haste to help clear things up, but up to Tuesday night he had not got as far as Chicago. The firm of Fennell & Co. openly charge that directors of the company have broken faith in selling their stock, thereby ruining the market, and they say also that there is not a cent of money left in the company's treasury, all that there was in hand having been eaten up by expenses. been eaten up by expenses.

Ernest Bowen, who used to be an assistant in the undertaking shop of S. J. Luckngs at 851 Amsterdam avenue, is now in puble for accusing that undertaker of illegally burying a still-born child in the coffin of Fritz Strauss, a twelve-year-old boy, whose body was recently exhumed from the Lutheran Cemetery in Long Island. The body of an infant was found in the excelsior pillow under the Strauss boy's head. Bowen concealed the infant there and took $6 from Mr. and Mrs. J. Howley Ingails of 141 West 101st street, whose child was. Undertaker Luckings knew nothing of the transaction at the time. Bowen was discharged several months ago for keeping $10 out of $20 he had collected for Early in August Bowen was arrested for assaulting Ida Graham who had made affidavit that she was his mistress. While he was in the Tombs awaiting trial in Special Sessions on this charge Bowen sent word to a New York newspaper that if it would provide a lawyer for him he would reveal the plot of a league of undertakers banded together to conceal the criminal operations of physicians and midwives. lowen told his story and Assistant District Attorney Cowan investigated it.

District Attorney Cowan investigated it. The papers printed Bowen's story. After reading it Undertaker Luckings went to the Harlem police court, denied the charge and was held in $500 bail. Bowen was then convicted in Special Sessions of assaulting the Graham woman but sentence was deferred pending the investigation of the charge against Luckings.

From the Ingalls family an affidavit was received showing that after the birth of the infant, attended by Dr. Gardner Hirons of 131 West 156th street, a death certificate was issued and a burial permit granted. Affidavits from the Bureau of Vital Statistics corroborate these statements. Ingalls also stated that he paid $6$ to Bowen to have the body properly $6 to Bowen to have the body properly buried and Luckings swears that he did not buried and Luckings swears that he did not know of that payment, of the fact that the infant was to be buried from his estab-lishment or that it was so buried. Subse-quently he discharged Bowen and he de-clares that the latter then told him of the burial of the child and extorted 300 or 370 from him by that means. Bowen was taken from the Tombe yes-terday to Mr. Cowan's office and asked who would corroborate his story. He named Ida Graham. He was not informed that she had made affidayit that Bowen had

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WEDNESDAY, Sept. 4. While the dealings in stocks showed but slight change in the aggregate from yesterday's total the movement of prices to-day was as uniformly upward as it had then been downward. Tuesday's declines had been mainly attributed to uncertainty regarding immediate monetary conditions or rather, to the prospects of higher rates and a more active demand for funds. Such developments as occurred in the money market to-day could not logically be considered conducive of higher prices for securities. While there were no transfers of money to the interior through the Sub-Treasury that institution showed a further large gain from the banks on its own account and the money market was, if anything a shade firmer. Offerings of money at below 4 per cent, on call were nominal, and on time a sharp 5 per cent. rate was reported for all periods up to six months.

Owing to the firmer tone of the money market some of the trust companies and other financial institutions have been drawwhich will, of course, cause an apparent decrease in bank resources, while not really making any change in conditions so far as the available supplies of money are concerned. Some of the best authorities on the money market still discourage the theory that money is going to be uncomfortably close and express the opinion that an advance in the call money rate to the so-called legal figure, would attract very large sums to this city. Furthermore, while a good deal of casulstry is being indulged in at present regarding the question of drawing gold from Europe, the contingency of im ports of the precious metal in the near future, under special arrangements, was openly discussed to-day by one of the largest institutions in the country. Superficially the sterling exchange market is still at least a cent above the gold importing point Exchange was again easier in tendency to-day, but there was no special pressure of bills upon the market, although ondon was again reported a fairly large buyer of American railway shares, both through arbitrage houses and bankers.

The ostensible cause of the rally in the stock market to-day was the cumulative evidence of an impending breaking away en masse of the operatives of a number of the constituent companies of the United States Steel Corporation from the control of the leaders of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Plate Workers. United States Steel preferred, with a single exception, displayed greater activity than any other stock on the list, but the net gain established in it was considerably less than that scored by most of the railway issues.

There was little or no news aside from the publication of a number of very satisfactory exhibits of railroad earnings. London's purchases of stocks here were estimated at about 30,000 shares. The action of the local market was thought to indicate simply that in a number of cases, for instance Union Pacific common, stocks had been oversold. The West showed a disposition to cover some of its recent commitments on the short side and local professional traders were also buyers for the same reason. At the outset the market showed some hesitancy, whichwas due to apprehension of a flurry in money rates. and in the first hour, further declines in prices occurred. A hardening tendency developed shortly before noon, however, on the absence of disturbing influences and the news received from the Pittsburg iron regions.

The greatest activity, in the railroad list, was displayed by Union Pacific, which was the leader, in Erie common, Mexican National, Atchison common, Southern Pacific Norfolk and Western, and St. Paul, and the stocks mentioned showed rallies of 1 to 2 points from the early low prices and closed at net gains, ranging from slight fractions up to 1% per cent in Norfolk and Western. On lighter dealings improvements were established in Baltimore and Ohio, Louistille and Nashville, Missouri, Kansas and Texas preferred. Reading issues and Rock Island, extending to 4% points in the last named.

The local traction issues were inactive but shared in the general improvement. Twin City Rapid Transit scored a further gain of a point on increased trading. The recent steady improvement in this issue is attributed to the proposed sale of electric power by the company, which is expected to increase its revenues and ultimately enlarge its dividend payments. Erie second preferred gained nearly 2 per cent, on sales of 2,000 shares, Canadian Pacific rose 2 points, and there was a further display of activity in Chicago Great Western at a net activity in Chicago Great vesterin at a het-improvement of 1½ per cent. In the in-dustrial list the features were Amalgamated Copper, Colorado Fuel and Iron, and Ten-nessee Coal and Iron, at advances extending to 2½ in the last named. The stock market closed strong.
